

Chris Minjun Kim
12/19/21
P2P Essay #2

This peer-to-peer program taught me a lot as a high school student. This program provided me with the opportunity to educate children as well as the courage to do so. Since I had two students, in particular, I was worried that I would mess things up because I was very bad at memorizing, but I managed it perfectly. Because the students paid careful attention to me and were involved in my teachings, I was able to finish this program with these students without making a mistake. This gave me confidence, and I was no longer afraid. This helped me enhance my self-control, critical thinking, communication, responsibility, and leadership abilities.

Communication, leadership ability, time management, and responsibility were the most important things I learned through peer-to-peer. To begin with, I mentioned that communication was one of the most important things I learned from peer to peer since, before this program, I was a little shy and was afraid to talk to random individuals. However, I was absolutely fine following this session and felt very comfortable chatting with people, and it gave me so much confidence. Second, I stated that one of the most important things I acquired from peer-to-peer was leadership abilities, since following this program, I was able to manage my students and keep them on task, as well as have accountability. Third, I indicated that one of the most important things I learned through peer-to-peer was time management because this program showed me how to arrange a meeting and properly spend my time. Without this program, I would still struggle to schedule things and make good use of my time. Finally, I mentioned that one of the most important things I learned from peer to peer was responsibility since this program encouraged me to take responsibility. For example, I was educating children and keeping them focused.

Peer-to- Peers assisted me in moving on with my future career objective by instilling courage, leadership, and communication skills in me. My long-term goal is to attend the Air Force Academy, but I lacked leadership, courage, and communication skills prior to participating in this program. However, after a while, I was highly comfortable chatting to students, which gave me the confidence to attempt new things and began to believe in myself. In addition, it pushed me to lead the class, and it was then that I realized I had finally proved capable of leadership.

I am extremely grateful for this program since it has inspired and benefited me in so many ways. I was one step closer to accomplishing my objective as a result of this program, for which I am quite thankful. I would absolutely suggest this program to my friends and others since it has benefited me a lot in a positive way, and I would definitely apply for the tutor role again next season and help more kids with stuff they are struggling with the most. I'm doing this because I want to support those kids and help them get closer to their goals.